DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 2/21/2003 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Huang et al (U.S. Pat. 5,631,787).

Regarding claim 1, Huang discloses a disk drive with improved shrouding (figures 1-2) comprising:

- (a) a disk 106;
- (b) a spindle motor 200 for rotating the disk;
- (c) an actuator arm 112;
- (d) a head 114 coupled to a distal end of the actuator arm;

(e) a rotary actuator 110 for rotating the actuator arm about a pivot to actuate the head radially over the disk;

(f) a base 104; and

(g) a cover 204 attached to the base to form a head disk assembly chamber, wherein the disk, head, actuator arm, and rotary actuator are enclosed within the head disk assembly chamber, the cover comprising an inner surface and an outer surface. Huang further discloses a shroud 120, 122, extending axially from the inner surface of the base into the head disk assembly chamber substantially enveloping the outer periphery of the disk, including at least part of the outer periphery coextensive with the actuator arm when the actuator arm is positioned adjacent to the outer periphery of the disk, to provide radial shrouding of the disk. Huang also discloses that the shroud could be a separated piece adhered to the inner surface of the base. Huang also discloses that the shroud can be made an integral part of the base (column 6, lines 50-67, column 7, lines 1-12). Huang does not specifically disclose that the shroud is part of the cover. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the disk drive of Huang with the shroud located on the cover, since it has been held that rearranging parts of an invention involves only routine skill in the art. In re Japikse, 86 USPQ 70. The rationale is as follows:

One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to provide the disk drive of Huang with the shroud located on the cover, as doing this would reduce the manufacturing time.

4. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Huang in view of Krum et al (U.S. Pat. 6,351,344).

Regarding claim 4, Huang discloses the disk drive described above. Huang does not specifically disclose a C-shaped depression positioned substantially concentric over the disk. Krum et al teaches a disk drive with a cover having a C-shaped depression 126 (figures 4-5). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the disk drive of Huang with the cover having a C-shaped depression as taught by Krum. The rationale is as follows:

One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to provide the disk drive of Huang with the cover having a C-shaped depression as taught by Krum, as doing this would allow for a high amount of rigidity of the cover.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-4 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Allen (U.S. Pat. 5,790,344) discloses a base casting/cover; Bracken et al (U.S. Pat. 4,583,213) discloses an air shroud for data storage disks; Helms et al (U.S. Pat. 3,700,855) discloses a magnetic disc assembly.
